Drivers Picketing Dallas Warehouses Of Safeway Stores

DALLAS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor truck drivers picketed Dallas warehouses of Safeway Stores Inc., today in a strike that threatened to close down all Safeway Stores in the Dallas area.

Officials of the company termed the strike "unauthorized," and said it threatened 1,400 company employees with unemployment. They said the sudden strike yesterday over seniority rights left between 800 and 900 tons of perishable foods and 300 tons of meat stacked up in the warehouses.

Union spokesmen said 85 truck drivers left their jobs "because the company is violating our seniority rights guaranteed by contract. They said the union would meet with the company at any time they are ready."

Company officials maintained that the truckers' contract applied only to promotions and pay increases and made no provision for union assignment of jobs on a seniority basis.

The Dallas warehouses serve 133 retail stores in an area from Texarkana to Austin and west to Stephenville.

3 Newspapermen Address Editorial Meeting In Waco

WACO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Three newspapermen made addresses today at the Texas Editorial Association opened a three-day session here. They were Calvin Clyde, Jr., assistant manager of the Tyler Courier-Times and Morning Telegraph; J. Marvin Hunter of the Baird Star at Baird, Tex.; and Jack Callan of the Kaufman Herald.

"There is too much sweet talk in newspapers today," Callan told his audience. "Every now and then it's a good thing for newspapermen to kick its community in the pants for the community's own good. A daily policy of antagonism won't work but the editorial policy must be firm and fearless."

City Editor Freer.

"Editorial writers in a big city can be more critical because such a writer is not often identified with his editorials. The small town editor must practice what he preaches—or else."

Hunter said there is a great demand in smaller communities for local historical stories and added that "such stories, written accurately, enrich the state and community."

Lloyd Gregory, vice president and general manager of the Houston Post, was grounded temporarily in Houston by bad weather, but arrives later today to make an address on "Trends in Present Day Journalism."

Clyde said great possibilities exist in the exchange of talents between newspapers and radio. He outlined how high interest in a continuing newspaper feature or news story can be supplemented over the air waves.

He was discussing "economics and potential possibilities of joint ownership of local newspapers and radio station." His observations

Meyers Swears No Money Given Him Except For Loans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers swore to senate investigators today that he never received any money from officials of Aviation Electric Company except in repayment of loans.

In an emotional voice, Meyers said: "I want to say without equivocation that earlier testimony of Mr. Lamarre and Mr. Rainower is entirely false regarding any payments to me except the repayment of loans I made to the corporation."

"Dummy Officers" Claimed

B. H. Lamarre and T. E. Rainower have testified they were only "dummy" officers for Aviation Electric, that Meyers was the real owner, and that the general took $150,000 of the firm's war profits, most of it by requiring them to "kick back" the bulk of the salaries to him.

Meyers was wartime chief of Air Force procurement (purchasing) and the senate was investigating the committee is inquiring into his relations with war contracts.

Now retired on a $641 monthly pension, the holding Army officer took the witness chair against this background of immediately preceding developments:

Cuse Tells of Deal

1. Robert Cuse, president of the Vinalmet Co., Jersey City, testified he received his first Air Forces war contract less than two months after he made a $25,000 personal loan to Meyers in 1944. He said that before making the loan he had tried unsuccessfully to sell materials to the Air Forces.

2. Lamarre, under a barrage of questioning from Meyers' counsel, stuck to his story of the general's relations with Aviation Electric, a Dayton, Ohio, concern now defunct. He also said Meyers asked him to give perjured testimony and promised they would make some "real money" after the senate hearings if Lamarre would lie and cover up the general's relations with Aviation Electric.

3. Attorney General Tom Clark said the justice department will seek an indictment against Meyers for income tax law violations as soon as the senate committee completes its hearings.

All Affairs Studied

(Amplifying Clark's announcement, justice department officials said they will study all the matters under department investigation.)

Royal Lovers Honeymooning After Magnificent Wedding

BY TOM WILLIAMS

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and her prince were married today in Westminster Abbey and arrived tonight at their honeymoon estate, cheered on their way by more than a million Britons who lined the streets of London.

The future queen and her bridegroom reached the Winchester Station in Southern England just six hours after their marriage, and motored to the Broadlands estate of Earl Mountbatten, the bridegroom's uncle, near Romsey.

Official Title Told

At about the same time, Buckingham Palace announced that the bridegroom would be referred to officially as "His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh." It said "he is a British Prince."

He gave up Greek citizenship—formerly was a prince of Greece—to become a British subject.

London had three chances to cheer the Princess and two times to pay homage to her and her bridegroom today.

With her father, King George VI, the princess left Buckingham Palace for the Abbey just after 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Central Standard Time). The ceremony over, she and the prince rode in their coach along jammed streets back to the Palace for the reception. Just after 4 p. m., with the royal family pelting them with confetti and rose petals, the couple entered their coach again and rode behind four horses to Waterloo station, to depart for Hampshire.

The wedding itself was acclaimed as "a magnificent spectacle" by U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas, who represented President Truman at the abbey.

Before only 3,000 kings and queens and commoners out with the world listening in, the heiress to the throne moved regally down the nave of the ancient cathedral on the arm of King George VI and became the bride of Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, newly knighted and proclaimed Duke of Edinburgh, in a ceremony completed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

At 11:45 a. m. (5:45 a. m. Central Standard Time).

Princess' Eyes Sparkle

The 21-year old princess' eyes sparkled below her diamond tiara. She wore an ivory satin gown rich in embroidery and pearls.

She greeted her 26-year old bridegroom at the altar and they knelt before the prime of all Douglas represented President Truman. The ceremony over, the couple moved to the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor. The only mishap occurred there and it was slight. As the bride party moved away from the altar, a page, Prince Michael of Kent, stumbled. But he did not lose his grip on the bride's 16-foot train. Princess Margaret, Rose, chief bridesmaid, moved forward to steady him.

In the chapel, the princess' lips trembled as she told friends she was overwhelmed at the ceremony. ### Truman Sees Sec. Marshall Off To Big Four Meeting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—President Truman personally wished "God speed and good luck" to Secretary Marshall today upon the secretary of state's departure by air for the Big Four foreign minister's meeting in London.

"I know you are going to have it because you know how to do your job," Mr. Truman said.

"I have the utmost confidence in you."

Marshall Uses "Cow."

The president spoke into a microphone at the National Airport where Marshall took off in the "Sacred Cow"—the four-engined plane which Mr. Truman has used so often.

Before going to the airport, Marshall conferred with the president at the White House. At the state department earlier, he talked for nearly an hour and a half with James F. Byrnes who preceded him as secretary of state and the United States representative to the conference of foreign ministers.

At the meeting in London starting next week, the Big Four—the U. S., Britain, France and Russia—will try to reach agreements looking toward a European peace settlement. Differences between the United States and Russia presumably figured prominently in Marshall's final consultations.

Marshall Thanks Truman

In a brief response to Mr. Truman, Marshall expressed his appreciation for his personal good wishes.

"I can only say, as I have said before, that I will do my best," Marshall said, referring to the London meeting as "important and vital."

Marshall's plane took to the air at 12:20 p. m. (CST). He is due in London tomorrow.

The secretary's chief traveling companion is Charles E. Bohlen.

British Views On Palestine To Be Told U.N. Today

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Britain today rejected one of the key parts of the newly drafted proposal for partition of Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries.

Sir Alexander Cadogan said Britain could not agree to share the administration temporarily with a five-country United Nations commission as recommended by a Palestine sub-committee of the general assembly.

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan told the United Nations Palestine committee today he would give Britain's views this afternoon on the newly drafted proposal to partition Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries.

Britain was not a member of the 9-nation subcommittee which drafted the partition plan.

Cadogan made his announcement as the 57-nation committee received a series of questions from Pakistan, Lebanon and Iraq—opponents of the partition idea—raising issues regarding the legality and workability of the plan.

"Danger To Peace"

Camille Chamoun of Lebanon likened the proposed corridors in Palestine to the Danzig corridor, which he termed "a danger to peace." He said the proposed 5-nation Palestine commission, which would administer the two projected countries of Palestine until

CEILING, RATIONING PLANS REJECTED FOR 4-POINT DISCUSSION

RENT, CREDIT, BANK AND MARKET CONTROLS FIRST ON SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The senate banking committee decided today to go ahead immediately with a four-point anti-inflation program but delayed action on President Truman's request for standby price-wage and limited rationing control power.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) said the committee will begin consideration next week of legislation to continue rent controls, restore installment buying curbs, tighten bank credit and possibly increase margins for buying on the commodity exchanges.

These four of the 10-points laid down by Mr. Truman in his program to combat high living costs already have been designated as the subjects of the senate-house economic committee.

The whole 10-point program was endorsed unanimously by the senate democratic policy committee but this group said responsibility for offering legislation to carry it out rests with the Republicans.

Other Proposals "Rebulous"

Describing the price-wage and rationing recommendations of the President as "nebulous," Tobey told a news conference he expects to have more information about what the administration is seeking after a conference tomorrow with treasury Secretary Snyder.

Tobey said he sees no reason why the four subjects chosen by the banking committee for hearings which will begin Monday should not be approved in the special session of congress.

He declined to say, however, whether bills may be introduced soon on the other six points of the President's program.

Cost of Living Cited

Tobey said he believes the people are looking to congress for quick action to curb the rising cost of living.

"The American people are getting bitter and ugly over the tragic price range under which they are living today," the New Hampshire senator declared. "The paramount situation in the country is prices and we in congress ought to have

France Calls More Men Into Active Military Service

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Leon Blum agreed tonight to try to form a government of "public safety" to bring peace to France's troubled labor situation.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—France recalled to the colors part of the 1947 military class to bring the army up to normal strength today as President Vincent Auriol looked to Leon Blum to form a strong stable government.

The recall order, broadcast over the National Radio Chain, brought about 140,000 men into the army at a time when the government was trying to stem a spreading strike wave, half of the 1947 contingent of troops, not due to be demobilized until spring, was in a few months ago to provide manpower for industry and agriculture.

Consultations Complete

Auriol was reported to have completed his consultations with party leaders who flocked to the Elysees Palace until late last night after the resignation of Premier Paul Ramadier, again throughout this morning.

Auriol invited Socialist Elder statesman Blum to lunch with him and usually well-informed sources said the premier urged commission him to try to form a widely-based government—probably with all but the Communists and De Gaulle's supporters.

De Gaulle, secretary-general of the Socialist party, said yesterday that Blum had consented to succeed Ramadier, another Socialist.

Premier Of Italy Likened To Duce In Red Statement

ROME, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti wrote in the Communist newspaper L'Unita today that Premier Alcide De Gasperi's speech Monday was "very similar in form to the speeches of Mussolini in the first year of his government."

De Gasperi had told his Christian Democrat party the nationwide violence stirred by leftists would not scare him from office.

"Everything that is conservative, backward, reactionary and rotten in Italian society responds to him," the Communist publication asserted as the Italian leftists' war of nerves entered its second week and moved into the halls of parliament.

Political disorders and Communist labor stoppages bubbled up the length and breadth of the Italian peninsula, placing a heavy strain on police forces at the disposal of Interior Minister Mario Scelba, the key man in De Gasperi's defense and the butt of the bitterest leftist attacks.

WHAT IS LOVE? THREE TYPES OF SENTIMENT WEAR THE NAME

Love At Its Best Opens a Vision of Heaven And Makes Possible the Ideal Christian Life—Sharing the Spirit of Him Who is Incarnate Love

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

"Love" is one of the most used and most abused words in the language. It is applied, indiscriminately to the highest and lowest human passions. Perhaps it will help clear our minds to recall that there are three words in the New Testament defining love.

The lowest form is erotic love—which is sensual passion.

The second and commonest form of love is translated by the Greek word "phileo" and signifies brotherly love; the love that man bears toward his friend or to a woman. In Jesus' farewell colloquy with Peter, with his repeated "Lovest thou me?" the point of the story is lost in the English translation. For Peter kept responding in terms of "phileo," whereas Jesus used the word "agapa," which represents divine love.

"Agapa," the loftiest word in the language, stands for all that is best in human possibility. By it the Christian becomes a partaker in the Divine nature. "God is agapa." There is no higher sentiment possible to mortal than this love which is born of God.

The fruit of the Love Tree is the fruit of divine life, the transformed life, for it works out into conduct approved of God. Mother love is perhaps the best expression of it on earth, although a hero's love for his country, the neighbor's care for his friends, the mercy shown toward all little ones and toward the needy are inspired by and comprehended within the love which best represents the character of God.

There is a legend about John the Aged at Ephesus, who was brought every week to the assembly of the Christians, and whose message to them every time was "Little children, love one another." At length the elders, eager for a fresh sermon, asked "Didst thou no new message for us?"

John replied "There is no other message; little children, love one another."

Great Enough For Love

Christ, animated love, forgives the bitter privilege of hatred, envy, jealousy, and revenge. These are forbidden in the royal law of God. Now, in the face of our hatred and enmity, we find ourselves echoing Mrs. Browning's phrase:

"A heart of mine, as thou great enough for love?"

It was Mrs. Browning who perhaps most beautifully put into poetry a definition of love's outward expression:

"How do I love Thee? Let me count the ways.

I love thee to the depth and breadth and height

My soul can reach, when feeling out of sight

For the ends of Being and Ideal Grace.

I love thee to the level of every day's most quiet need, by sun and candlelight.

I love thee freely, as men strive for Right;

I love thee purely, as they turn from Praise.

I love thee with the passion put to use

In my old griefs and with my childhood's faith.

I love thee with a love I seemed to lose

With my lost saints,—I love thee with the breath

Smiles, tears, of all my life!—and, if God choose,

I shall but love thee better after death.

Despite its supreme exaltedness, love is a lovely thing, wearing everyday clothes. It is expressed by the tireless, ceaseless ministry of myriads of mothers. It shines wherever men deny themselves for the sake of a great Christian cause. It reaches the level of international relations as the only plan that can assure us of a successful civilization.

The Otherism of Love

It alone can save society from the pagan evil of divorce. Some one has said that "The family that prays together stays together." Well, does Henry Drummond, in his famous little address, call love the "Great-est Thing in the World." His book, next to the Bible, is the best possible reading preparation for a consideration of this Lesson upon love.

Love always gives rather than seeks. The golden text of the Lesson is "For God so loved that He gave." He who partakes of the love that is of the Divine nature is an outgoing spirit, always thoughtful of others' needs, eager to serve and to share. There is no room for petty selfishness or bitterness or jealousy or uncharitableness in the life that has been upheld by the Divine love and that partakes of the Divine nature. It is obvious, of course, that the present world hatred, and jealousy, and fear and rivalry would vanish, could people learn the lesson of love, which is God's supreme law. He wants us, as nations and as individuals, to live together as brothers in the light of eternal love. There would be no more wars, no more depressions, no more exploitations, no more bitterness of suffering. Such a love can come only from a frank acceptance of God himself. "We love because He first loved us."

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

Christianity is a religion that will not keep; the only thing to do with it is to use it, spend it, give it away.

—Henry van Dyke.

It is a beautiful necessity of our nature to love something.

—Jerrold.

I have a life in Christ to live; I have a death in Christ to die; And must I wait until science give All doubts a full reply?

—Shairp.

Love is an image of God, and not a lifeless image, but the living essence of the Divine nature, which beams full of all goodness.

—Luther.

Follow after love.

—Corinthians 14:1, R. V.

And I smiled to think God's greatness Flowed around our incompleteness, Round our restlessness His rest.

—Elizabeth B. Browning.

Let any of those who renounce Christianity write fairly down in a book all the absurdities they believe instead of it, and they will find it requires more faith to reject Christianity than to embrace it.

—Colton.

gation, and the department "is also inquiring into others who were engaged with him in the various transactions."

When Meyers was called back to the witness stand, Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) of the senate subcommittee first required him to again take the oath "to tell the whole truth x x x."

Then the chairman asked if before the committee began questions, Meyers had "any facts" to present.

"Yes Sir I have," Meyers replied in a loud firm voice. "As you know I have been sitting here for about 10 days listening to many charges made against me of perjury, corruption, fraud and that I was a contracting officer and purchasing officer holding stocks with the military companies."

Meyers paused and then said: "I intend to sit here and answer all the charges in the most minute details. I intend to sit here unless I am physically and bodily thrown out."

Ferguson assured the general the investigating group would "give you time to cover" the charges.

Meyers thanked him and then said he believed "it pertinent to matters brought up here" to present some background.

Personal Friend

Cuse said he and Meyers have been personal friends for 10 or 15 years, and that the general telephoned him in June, 1944, and asked him to go along on a deal to purchase government bonds on margin.

He said he never understood the proposal exactly, and instead of going along he made a personal loan to Meyers, who still owes him $22,000 of the amount.

Meyers has testified that he and his wife made a speculative purchase of $4,000,000 worth of government bonds on "margin" during the war.

Lamarre testified yesterday that Meyers came to his home in July and they worked out a false story intended to explain away Meyers' profits from the company. He said the general told him they would both be called before the senate group and must agree on what they would testify.

Called back to the stand when the committee resumed today, Lamarre first replied to a series of written questions submitted through the committee by John H. Amen, attorney for Meyers.

Amen wanted to know whether Lamarre had signed a letter dated Sept. 27 of this year listing approximately $18,000 worth of repayments of loans which the letter said Meyers had made to Lamarre and his wife.

Meyers has told reporters that money which Lamarre testified he "kicked back" from his salary was actually due him in repayment of personal loans.

Letter Is Cited

"It's obvious I signed the letter because the photostat indicates it," Lamarre said, adding that Meyers "asked me to send him this letter to carry out the story we had agreed to tell."

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) wanted to know whether Lamarre and his wife, who was formerly Meyers' secretary, had borrowed money from Meyers.

"That is absolutely false," Lamarre said. "I never at any time borrowed any such sums from General Meyers."

Amen wanted to know whether Lamarre, assuming the truth of the testimony he has given at the public hearings, regards himself as equally responsible with Meyers.

"I couldn't answer that question," Lamarre said.

No Immunity Claimed

Amen asked what committee attorneys had said to Lamarre about responsibility or immunity.

"Council has told me nothing about immunity," he said.

The witness, in answer to other questions, labeled as "absolutely false," the contention that he had paid for decorating the general's various living quarters "out of appreciation" for what the general had done for him.

Automobile Issue

He also denied that he had requested purchase of a $2,995 blue Cadillac automobile or had used the car frequently over a long period of time.

He said he never at any time drove the car and rode in it only when Meyers had asked him to visit his wife who had just given

AP Newsfeatures. FORT SMITH, Ark.—"Jake" knows the value of a nickel, but he also likes ice cream cones. ## FRIDAY RITES FOR HENRY CHAS. GROSS; BURIAL IN OAKWOOD

ATHENS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—(Sp.)—Henry Charles Gross, a resident of Athens for 30 years, died at his home here Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. He was 80 years old.

Gross came to Texas at the age of ten from Toledo, Ohio. He settled in Corsicana where he was married in 1904 to Carrie Lena Hoffman, a resident of Corsicana at that time. Gross moved from Corsicana to Athens in 1917.

Mrs. Gross preceded her husband's death by less than two months. She passed away September 28.

Funeral services for Gross will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Carroll and Lehn Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. W. E. Everhart, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Athens officiating.

has ice cream in his mouth. It is estimated he consumes a daily average of six cones; more in the summer. And like many a child, "Jake" has been known to down too many cones in one day and spend several hours in solitary misery.

The terrier doesn't spend every cent he gets, either. At last count, he had built up a reserve fund of 70 cents against a "rainy" day.

"Jake" is no beggar. He pays his way. The other day, his close friend, Chris Catsavlis, started to drive away in his jeep. "Jake" came running up, planted his paws on the running board and quietly dropped a nickel. But he didn't budge until he was invited to ride. "Jake's" owner is George Kouropis, who now is in Greece.

Burial will be in Corsicana at the Oakwood cemetery at 4:30 p. m.

Honorary pallbearers, all veterans of the Spanish-American War, will be Sam Blair, C. A. Spencer, Will Glibreath, Avery Russell, John Knight and Mr. Irving, all of Athens. Pallbearers will be C. C. Puckett, Horace Valentine, Billy Hoffman Buck Windham and Carl Wimberly, all of Corsicana, and Pete Loden of Athens.

A member of the Presbyterian church, and for 50 years a member of the Navarro Woodmen of the World Camp, Gross is survived by three sons, H. C. Gross III, Aubrey W., and Audrey W., all of Athens; two daughters, Mrs. L. P. Buckner and Bertha Gross, both of Athens; one brother, Oscar A. Gross of Ada, Okla.; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Guard Unit Puts Silver Dollars In Circulation

Corsicana should have plenty of silver dollars in circulation by the end of this week—perhaps 2,000 of them—because that's how a local National Guard unit is paying off its personnel.

Headquarters and Headquarters Battery of the 133rd Field Artillery, which has 47 enlisted men and nine officers, received its quarterly payroll Thursday in silver dollars. Public Relations Officer J. C. Gaston announced. The payroll amounts to $2,147.03, Gaston said.

"Flooding" the city with the silver dollars will serve to show Corsicana at least one advantage of a National Guard unit—that of thriving business to the community, Gaston explained.

Recruiting Campaign. The plan falls in line with a nationwide National Guard recruiting campaign which opened September 16 and closed last Tuesday, November 16. During the campaign enlistments were boosted considerably, causing the quarterly payroll for both units here to double that received last spring, when the units began receiving pay, Gaston said.

Besides the Field Artillery unit, Company D of the 143rd Infantry which has four officers and 51 enlisted men, is stationed in Corsicana. Its payroll totaled $1,354.50 but it was not in silver dollars.

Combined Payrolls. Combined payrolls of the two outfits plus pay of instructors and armory caretakers totaled $7,061.53 for the last three months, it was announced.

The recruiting campaign recently ended brought in 18 men for the Field Artillery group and 12 for the Infantry company. Their quotas were 64 men. Each unit now is at approximately one-half strength, Gaston said.

Prizes Awarded. Prizes were awarded for outstanding efforts of recruiting during the two-month drive. The Field Artillery battery awarded these prizes:

Hulan F. Brinkley, $25; William E. Lewis, $12.50; and George H. Blasenap, $12.50.

David K. Hopwood won the first prize of $25 in the Infantry company and the second and third prizes will be awarded December 15, with the group's campaign continued until that date.

Recessed Session Of Commission Is Scheduled Friday

Extension of city limits, over one-quarter of a mile, will receive another airing at 2 p. m. Friday when the city commission in a recessed session takes up an ordinance extending the limits to the east.

School trustees of Phillips Chapel and the Powell school district, who are protesting the extension because they contend it would take their pupils for the Corsicana schools, were expected to attend with their attorney, Jerry C. Roe. Although the ordinance extending the limits westward was passed on a first reading Tuesday, it was anticipated there would be renewed effort at the Friday meeting of western residents to have the boundary lines changed in places.

Mayor Hubert T. Braselton, strong advocate of extending the limits of the city so that more may share in its benefits, hopes to have both ordinances adopted by the early part of December.

Soil Conservation Train Officials Praise Corsicana

Praise of Corsicana for its cooperation with the Burlington Lines and the Second National Bank of Houston in their recent jointly sponsored Soil Conservation special train, was expressed Thursday in a letter to Herman Brown, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, from R. Wright Armstrong, executive assistant of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Co. and the Wichita Valley Railway Co.

The train, carrying more than 100 outstanding business leaders of Texas and the United States, came here Nov. 10 on a promotional Soil Conservation Day. They toured Navarro County farms, were entertained by local residents.

"We of the Burlington want you to know how much we appreciate the hard and enthusiastic work which you put in before and during the recent soil conservation tour," Armstrong wrote Brown in a personal letter.

"Your stay at Corsicana was perfect. At no place were the local arrangements better. Particularly should the committee who arranged the farm tour receive compliments. These were outstanding, and I don't believe I have ever been connected with such an adventure where the local committee was as faithful as were those on your automobile committee.

"We who have done public work know that these things do not just happen."

"We hope our stop will eventually prove to be of benefit to your community, that the attention focused on Wiley's Wash will have the effect of continuing this work here to that portion of Navarro County as well as awaken interest in conservation all over that section of the state."

MATT DAWSON SPEAKS AT JOINT MEETING OF SCHOOL GROUPS

P TA, DAD'S CLUB AND BAND PARENTS HEAR DISCUSSION OF BOYS

"Training Boys in the Home for Home Life" was the subject of an interesting talk given by Matt Dawson, Corsicana attorney, before the annual joint meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, the Dad's Club and the Band Parents' Association Tuesday night in the library of the Corsicana High School.

Dawson prefaced his remarks by saying that the prime requisite of his subject was an attractive home, and that if a child's life is to be beautiful, he should have a home that has the same qualities.

Parents at Home "The subject presupposes the presence of parents at home, and not around the bridge table or engaged in their other varied activities. We hear a lot about day nurseries, child clinics, youth centers and other similar organizations. They are fine organizations in their field. But none of them can take the place of the parent in the home," the attorney said.

He listed four qualities to be considered in training a boy, and dwelt on them separately.

"Look first to the boy's personality—how he gets along with other people. Our own Governor Jester, because he has a very winsome personality, because people like him, because he has made himself available to them, has become the greatest governor of the state since Jim Hogg."

"We ought to develop that trait in our children. We should teach them to take a genuine interest in other people."

Dawson listed next the training of the boy's intellect. He pointed out that it was not possible for all of us to expose our children to the thoughts of great men in person, but said that through "good books the same result can be accomplished."

He complimented the profession of teaching, but said, "If I could at all criticize today's schools, I would say that they teach too much knowledge, and not enough thinking."

The third quality he listed in training a boy was imagination.

Imagination Needed He pointed out that imagination comes to the child early in life, and should not be neglected, because when directed into the proper channels it can lead to some of the most outstanding accomplishments in his life.

The fourth quality he dealt with was conscience.

"We cannot lecture or punish children into knowing the difference between right and wrong. The only way we can make them see that is through the constant example of it in the way we live our own lives."

Mrs. Roy Bristow presided at the session for the Parent-Teacher Association, and welcomed the representatives of the other two organizations. Mrs. Doyle Pevehouse responded for the Band Parents Association, and R. C. Harkins responded for the Dad's Club.

Armistead Introduced Speaker H. C. Allen gave the invocation, and R. A. Armistead acted as master of ceremonies in presenting the speaker of the evening and the high school students who furnished the entertainment.

Fatty Jim Andrews, accompanied by Mrs. Jack Stroube at the piano, gave a vocal selection that was well-received. Peggy Harwell gave a well-executed piano solo, and Verdie Cook entertained with a vocal selection. Mrs. C. C. McCulston was in charge of the program.

Members of the school board present were Mrs. H. R. Stroube Sr., Mrs. Festus Pierce and Ralph Brown.

Col. Tom Spikes and Capt. J. C. Gaston of the local National Guard units were also present.

The annual Christmas party of Navarro county Home Demonstration Clubs will be held at the YMCA on December 13th at 2 o'clock p. m.

Choice Of Family Physician Should Not Be In Hurry

AUSTIN, Nov. 20.—(Sp.)—According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, there are too many persons who approach the choice of a family physician casually, viewing the doctor much as a firm to whom services are required only in an emergency, such families wait until illness strikes, and then get hold of the first doctor who can respond to the call. While such an attitude still reasonably assures one of satisfactory medical services, it can handicap the physician somewhat, and in the long run does not permit the supervision and close personal contact which can exist only by having a regular family doctor.

"Knowing his patients enables a physician to give advice on maintaining health and preventing disease, based on his intimate knowledge of the physical and mental make-up of the members of the family," Dr. Cox stated. "The casually summoned physician plainly cannot have this background or opportunity. It is well known to no one procedure or drug can be applied to the cure of every disease. It would indeed be fine if we could have some panacea for all diseases, but unfortunately the healing art is not as simple as that."

"People are far from being alike," he continued. "Bodily and mental characteristics markedly differ in members of the same family. Reaction to medicines of various types, the habits of the individual, environmental influences, and personal factors vary widely. Armed with an intelligent appreciation of these facts, as applied to the members of the family, a physician possesses the maximum opportunity to render his best advice, not only in curing disease, but as medical counselor to the family as a whole."

NEAL A. PRINCE

Former Corsicanan Wins Playwriting Prize In Houston

Neal A. Prince of Houston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prince of this city, was recently awarded the Lottie Farish prize of $200 as the prize-winning playwright in original play contest sponsored by the Houston Little Theater Guild.

The award was presented by Carl Illig, a member of the judging committee, at a forum of the guild at the Little Theatre. The occasion was a public forum in which local artists and writers discussed the merits of plays which should be produced to best advantage by the Little Theatre.

"Cry Out, Cassandra" is scheduled for production during the Texas Creative Arts Festival in March. Ralph Mead, director of the Little Theatre, will supervise the production.

The young playwright is a graduate of Corsicana High School, a Rice Institute, a member of the Guild, a veteran of World War II, and a Houston architect.

Corsicana-Waco Train Service To Be Curtailed

Passenger train service on the Cotton Belt System between Corsicana and Waco will be curtailed by the removal of two trains, according to a letter received Tuesday by Mayor Hubert T. Branton from the Texas Railroad Commission.

Train 105 arriving in Corsicana from Waco at 11:42 p. m. and Train 106 southbound leaving Corsicana at 6 p. m. for Waco are affected.

J. R. Culbertson, local Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt agent, stated early Tuesday afternoon that he had not received any information or notice, but expects to hear this week.

Culbertson made it plain that the proposed curtailment would not affect the trains except between Corsicana and Waco.

"These trains will turn around in Corsicana and return east instead of going to Waco, turning around and going back to Mt. Pleasant," Culbertson stated.

The hearing for the proposed curtailment of train service was held in Waco, August 26. Purdon, Navarro county, protested the removal of the trains. Stations affected between Corsicana and Waco are Purdon, Dawson, Hubbard, Mt. Calm and Axtell.

The notice to the mayor did not state when the change is effective.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help!

1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before "your time," it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes. Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Many Influenza Cases Reported To Health Unit

Influenza, a winter visitor that comes early and stays after supper, topped the list of communicable diseases reported to the Corsicana-Navarro Health Unit by physicians during October, the monthly compilation of figures reveals. There were 35 cases reported, bringing the total for the year to 2,426.

Gonorrhea, with 21 new cases, was second highest, and whooping cough totaled 13 cases. Other diseases listed included three of chickenpox, two of diphtheria, two of measles, two of mumps, two of malaria.

For the first time this year not a case of syphilis was reported. Immunizations given during October totaled 12 for diphtheria, one for typhoid fever, four for pertussis and four for rabies.

During the month 175 syphilis specimens were collected, and eight for gonorrhea. Syphilis treatments of all types totaled 279. Of 18 persons suspected of being carriers of venereal diseases, four were found infected after examination. During the month four persons with gonorrhea were discharged as adequately treated.

Tuberculosis control one person was admitted to nursing service. In school health work six were admitted to service. Twenty-six teacher-nurse conferences were held, and 15 public lectures attended by 2,135 persons were given in schools.

General sanitation work included collection of 77 water samples for laboratory analysis, and chlorination of 26 water supplies.

Inspectors investigated 12 nuisance and complaint cases and made 11 miscellaneous sanitation visits. There were 19 eating and drinking establishment inspections. Twenty-six grocery stores and two candy stores were inspected and 14 dairy farm inspections made. Seventy-five milk samples were collected.

Inspected by Mrs. Johnston The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Glynn M. Johnston, program chairman for the meeting. Mrs. Johnston said that she was proud to introduce a home-town boy and a former student "who has made good."

She spoke of his experience as a journalist while City Editor of the Temple Telegram, special correspondent for the Dallas News in the Panama Canal Zone, state wire editor for the Associated Press and his work with the government in the nation's capital.

Mrs. Johnston stated that Mr. Hickerson is well qualified to give first-hand information on the actual workings of the government. She said that the subject for study this year in the Parent-Teacher groups is "Living and Working Together," and that government is very important in this realm. Since "We are free men in a free land that has been built upon free enterprise," Mrs. Johnston said, "we are a favored few—a minority in the world today."

She stated that in all the continent of Asia, in most of Africa and South America, and increasingly in most of Europe, there is no man who can stand up and proclaim his freedom. She reminded her listeners that "we must be eternally vigilant" to keep our government free.

Mrs. W. B. Woolley presided for a routine business session, during which announcements were made concerning the state PTA convention in Galveston the latter part of this week.

Exhibits of books for Junior High School ages dominated the tables in the library and provided an interesting and timely background for the meeting. Mrs. Dean Wood, librarian, explained the aims of book week and discussed the exhibits that she had arranged.

Mrs. Glynn Johnston, program chairman for the afternoon, introduced entertainment features which included a piano number by Cyrus Johnston and a reading by Jane Watson. She also presented Clayton Hickerson, guest speaker of the afternoon, who discussed "Your Government is You."

Clayton Hickerson, newspaperman and former Congressional aide, in a recent discussion before the Corsicana Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association lauded the records of Governor Beauford H. Jester and Senator James E. Taylor of Kansas, but said, "The average Congressman is as fast with your dollar as a race-track bookie."

Hickerson, whose home is Corsicana, roundly criticized Congress for its wastefulness and its quick methods in passing appropriation bills while displaying reluctance to cut taxes. The former executive secretary to Congressman Olin E. Teague said that as far as he knows there is no department in the federal government which is not wasting money and cited the United States Department of Agriculture as a prime example.

"They spend your hard-earned money to keep prices down with one hand," he said, and spend more to keep prices up with the other hand."

Criticized Incumbents in Office The speaker lashed strongly at money spent to keep incumbents in office, and said that the Agriculture Department misrepresented facts concerning the necessity for sugar rationing until "President Truman and the Administration deemed it politically wise to lift it."

"Now," he said, "they're trying hard to tell you of the plight of the poor, shattered Europeans in order to pry you loose from some min of your freedom and some more of your money."

In lauding the records of Navarro County's own Beauford Jester and James Taylor, Mr. Hickerson said that Texas now has its greatest Governor. "Now we can forget about Jim Hogg" the speaker said. In James Taylor, Mr. Hickerson said, "Texas now has one of its greatest statesmen."

Of the Jester-Taylor bill for raising teachers' salaries, the speaker reminded Corsicana teachers that they would be $11,000.00 better off each year had this bill been enacted into law.

Informing Corsicana Of Facts About Latter Day Saints Or Mormons Said Goal of Two Young Missionaries Here

By BONNIE WRIGHT HINFORD Daily Sun Staff.

Door-to-door selling has little appeal for the average young man. But Francis M. Rogers and Kenneth D. Chappell, missionaries and elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, popularly known as Mormons, are not average young men. They consider it the opportunity of a lifetime to go daily from hospitable door to hospitable door to spread knowledge of their sect. For their efforts they receive no remuneration from their church, and they ask nothing of the public beyond the chance to refute unfounded prejudices against their faith.

Conversion Not Goal. Associated with the North-Central Texas district of the Texas-Louisiana Mission, Chappell and principle, the church will not be dedicated until construction expenses are paid in full.

Chief targets for the Mormon missionaries, here and elsewhere, are the prejudices of heresy. The most spectacular has been the charge of polygamy, a practice originally tolerated by the church but not sanctioned since 1890 when Wilford Woodruff, president of the church, excommunicated himself for practicing plural marriage after the time of the manifesto. Rogers, who has heard his faith and himself denounced by at least one other local clergyman without opportunity for self-defense, can assure any questioner concerning the charge of polygamy, "Plural marriage has never been practiced at any time in the church's history by more than 3 percent of its members."

Only two of the four thousand young men and women giving voluntary and unpaid years to the Mormon mission field, Chappell and Rogers are persistent salesmen for both their church and its national home, Utah. Believing as their church believes that the Americana will be founded on the promise of Scriptures and maintaining that this country should be defended with religious as well as patriotic zeal, both young men were high in the armed forces abroad during the war. Rogers was in Germany 16 months with army ordinance, and Chappell was in Germany 16 months with the infantry.

One to the School. At the conclusion of their two-year mission term, Rogers plans to enter the Utah Agricultural College at Logan to study automotive engineering. His home is Mesa, Arizona, a community strongly Mormon.

And Chappell? "I'm going back to my farm home in Lyman, Utah," he says with a grin. Believing that it is impossible for a man to be saved in ignorance and that learning should be sought by study and by faith, Mormons have played an important part in maintaining the high educational standards of the state of Utah. In recently published comparative study of states, Utah placed first in accomplishment in education; first in the degree in which accomplishment is commensurate with economic ability to support education; first in the efficiency of educational effort and first in the educational level of the adult population. Utah is about 74 percent Mormon.

Independence Characteristic. Independence of spirit, leardling and concern for the welfare of their own and for others are characteristics of the Mormon people. Farms and Industries, owned by the church, are an important part of its welfare program, providing a means of livelihood for the unemployed among its membership. A relief program cares for those incapacitated by age or illness for make-work projects. The acceptance of any form of dola is discouraged among its membership. Latter Day Saints, according to Chappell and Rogers, believe in the seven-day sort of religion but also train for balanced personalities. Recreational halls, where dancing is encouraged along with physical education, draw together

MRS. VIOLET TANNER FUNERAL SERVICES PLANNED SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Violet Tanner, 42, of Dawson, who died Wednesday at the P. and S. Hospital, will probably be held Saturday with interment in the Dawson cemetery. The rites will be held from the First Methodist church and will be conducted by Rev. J. L. Langston and Rev. Roy Davis. Mrs. Tanner was seriously injured Nov. 11 in an automobile collision near Mt. Calm, Hill county, and was treated at a Waco hospital and then returned home. Mrs. Tanner was brought to the local hospital Monday morning and died suddenly Wednesday morning.

Surviving are her husband, O. R. Tanner; a son, James O. Tanner; a daughter, Mrs. Christine Prater; parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lamb; a brother, Myrell W. Lamb, all of Dawson; a sister, Mrs. Louise Michael, Wortham; two grandchildren and other relatives.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock from the Corley Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

RUFUS E. HUCK DIED IN LOCAL HOSPITAL; SERVICES SATURDAY

Rufus E. Huck, 70, novelty glass-blower with many carnivals and later operator of a Neon sign show, died in the Navarro Hospital Wednesday shortly before midnight following a short illness. He had been here a few weeks with relatives preparatory to spending the winter in Corsicana as has been his custom.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Corley Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jessie Huck, Oklahoma City; a son, Maurice L. Huck, 521 North Twelfth street, Corsicana; two daughters, Mrs. Mattie Adell McCulliff and Miss Lillian Jane Huck, both of Oklahoma City; two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Fred Bailey, Mendota, Ill. Huck was born, June 17, 1877, in Illinois.

the youth of the ward or church community.

Children Taught Faith. Mormon children are trained from their earliest years to accept and honor calls to service in the church. A primary association supervises instruction of those below the age level of 12 years, while the mutual improvement associations for young men and women provide cultural, recreational and religious training. In a church ward there are positions of service for 211 workers.

Abstention is an outstanding part of the Mormon creed, holding check upon impulses the church holds to be hostile to the growth of mind and body. On the black list with alcohol are tea, coffee and tobacco. Choccolata and cola drinks are considered taboo, also, but not prohibited. Certain periods of fast are observed.

Mormon mission services include Scriptural study linked with that of the Book of Mormon, historical and religious record of ancient America. The Book of Mormon teaches that Zion will be founded upon North and South America, according to Scriptures as it was revealed to Mormon prophets in 1830. In Utah the church observed its centennial year last summer with pageantry that attracted nationwide interest.

Missionaries Here. Mormon missionaries resumed activities in Corsicana a year ago, although representatives of the church had been active here for several years before the outbreak of World War II.

What do Rogers and Chappell think of Corsicana? "It's friendly," they say. "Friendlier," they continue, "than more metropolitan centers where life is paced too fast for people to listen." For that's all they're seeking when they knock at a door; an opportunity to speak about the faith they honor and to answer questions.

Naval Officer Is Speaker Thursday At Civitan Meeting

A interesting account of his travels in the Pacific on the heavy cruiser USS Fall River, was given before the Corsicana Civitan Club at its weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at the Navarro Hotel dining room by Lt. Comdr. Tom Adams, USN.

Adams, who is a graduate of Corsicana High school, was assigned to the cruiser immediately after its launching, and was with it until it was decommissioned in Seattle to become part of the Pacific reserve fleet.

During the time he served aboard it, the ship visited Bikini atoll, where the atomic bomb tests were made, all parts of Japan proper, Korea and Shanghai, China. He gave a vivid description of life in all those places. Frank Williams and Tom Whitefield comprised the program committee presenting Adams' talk.

It was announced that there would be no meeting of the club next week, because of the advent of Thanksgiving Day. The club will meet the week following, however, and Rev. J. Morris Bailey and Joe Holley were named on the program committee for that occasion.

Visitors at the session were Gene Fletcher, Paul Fisk, James West and Rev. Andrew Byers.

Social Security Pays Residents Of County $73,920

Social Security benefit checks amounting to $73,920 annually are being sent to 385 people in Navarro county, R. R. Tuley, Jr., manager of the Waco district office, announced Tuesday as the Social Security Administration regional office there observed its ninth anniversary.

The Waco field office serves eleven Central Texas counties. The 385 Navarro county residents receiving monthly benefit checks include 169 retired workers and their wives, accounting for $40,560 of the total, and 216 widows, minor children, and dependent adults, receiving $33,360 of the annual total, Tuley reported.

Tuley explained that he or his assistant, Joe Clepp, have regularly scheduled visits to this section and will be glad to discuss individual social security problems at the Texas Employment Commission office in Corsicana.

Commenting on the office anniversary, Tuley said many changes in attitude in Corsicana residents have resulted in the passage of time.

"The rising cost of living makes the present benefit scale too low in most cases, and farm people and small business employers are provided no insurance against disability under the present system of old-age and survivors insurance," said Tuley.

In the past nine years the Waco office has issued more than 200,000 original account number cards, Tuley reported.

Ferguson, Corsicana, president, was out of town and unable to attend.

Emhouse, First, Northside and Memorial churches were represented. Refreshments were served following the program.

The December session will be held Dec. 22 at the Northside Baptist church here.

Buffet Supper At Mays Ranch Fetes Buffalo Visitors

After the christening of their one-year-old son, Mays Johnson, on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church, Mr.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Clement J. Hager of San Antonio, Texas, was presented to Princess Elizabeth Tuesday as "an American who has come thousands of miles to be with us on this happy occasion."

"Have you really?" the princess said, smiling. "It is so nice for someone to take the trouble to do that. I feel very grateful."

Mrs. Hager was among the guests at St. James Palace, where Princess Elizabeth met those who had sent her wedding presents. Mrs. Hager's gift was a white satin gown and negligee copied from her grandmother's trousseau.

Pleasantly surprised, she said, "I never expected that," she said. "I felt it was enough for me simply to be at the party and to see all the wonderful things which so many different people sent the princess."

"The princess shook hands with me, and so did the queen. Both of them were just as charming as they could be. They impressed me as being very human, not at all like the Royalty that so many Americans imagine."

"The king was quite pleasant, too. He was slightly as the Royal party passed by."

"One of Choicest Spots," Mrs. Hager said, "I had one of the choicest spots, right at the end of the throne room, next to the big glass case containing Royal family's gifts of jewels and in front of the case where the Trumans and Douglasses were shown."

"I was dazzled by all that I saw in St. James Palace," Mrs. Hager said. "My favorite was some lovely lace given to the princess by Queen Mary. It was displayed, not with the other gifts from the Royal family, but among presents from all sorts of people. I liked that touch, too."

Megarity Family Long-Lived; 591 Years At Reunion

All totaled, 591 years of Megaritys sat down to dinner. The hostess was the one sister who somehow has survived having eight brothers down through the years.

Brothers, sisters oft times say, can be a batch of trouble. Trouble to a sister, that is, who came up with them through the turbulent years of childhood. And they can be nice things to have around. Through childhood. Through maturity. Through the days on end.

Mrs. Hattie Jackson, 1431 West Collin street, who recently returned to Corsicana, was the hostess for the Scotch-Irish Megarity clan at the dinner party this week.

Keep on Living. The Megarity family has quite a distinction—they keep on living. Death, which comes to all, hasn't violated the threshold.

There has never been a death within the ranks of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Megarity, residents of Navarro county. Mr. and Mrs. Megarity moved to Texas from Georgia in December, 1889. Mr. Megarity died in 1932, and Mrs. Megarity in 1938. They were both past 80 years of age. To the union was born nine children—the eight boys and the one girl who sat down to dinner.

Charles is Oldest. Charles L. Megarity of Beaumont is the oldest, and W. K. Megarity of Shreveport is the youngest.

The dinner was almost like one held 26 years ago, only the mother and father were missing. In 1921 the family got together to celebrate with their parents their 50th wedding anniversary.

Varied Interests. The Megarity brothers have varied interests. Charles B. is owner of the Beaumont Music Co., J. H. is retired as Waco manager for Swift & Co., Jess is head of the Corsicana sanitation department, V. C. of Shreveport is with the Standard Oil of Louisiana, Jack of Corsicana is a deputy sheriff, A. K. of Houston is a long-time Texas Co. employee, W. A. of Corsicana is a retired municipal employee, W. K. of Shreveport is secretary-treasurer of the Shreveport baseball club of the Texas League.

Mrs. Jackson recently returned to Corsicana from Normanges to make her home. Other Guests. Included at the dinner included Mrs. J. H. Megarity, Mrs. Jack Megarity, Mrs. V. C. Megarity, Charlotte Megarity, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Megarity, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Spencer of Corsicana, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Corry of Houston. Mrs. Jackson's daughters, Mrs. T. P. Little of Corsicana, a first cousin; Mrs. Frank Dunton of Corsicana, a second cousin; J. A. Young of Corsicana, a brother-in-law; Mrs. Hazel Levy of Corsicana, and Mrs. Nora Culbertson of Shreveport.

MACKENZIE'S Column

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst.

In these uncertain days when thrones have been falling like the leaves of autumn, what knight is bold enough to enter the lists as champion of a royal princess who one day will be queen?

Well, for one I give you young Mountbatten, who today married his princess charming and thus will be the consort of another reigning Queen Elizabeth. Moreover your correspondent is able to assure you, from one who knows the princess, that this is in fact a love-match and not an "arranged" marriage in the generally accepted sense of that term.

Childhood Sweethearts. The two young folk were more or less brought up together, and have been sweethearts since childhood. So let the old curmudgeons bemoan with their unhappy tales of marriage for convenience. Give love its day.

But apart from this romance, what does the throne mean to an England which is ruled by a Socialist government? The people's choice? If you ask the overage Briton he will tell you, as many have told me, something like this: Traditions Stressed.

The British are steeped in the tradition of centuries, and they live greatly in the past. Indeed their national strength has been due largely to an esprit de corps which tradition has helped to build. And the sovereign is the unifier of everything they believe. He (or she) is both head of state and defender of the faith. That is, the ruler is the religious as well as the national symbol—a symbol which binds together not only the people of the British Isles but of the colonies and the world-wide commonwealth of sovereign nations.

The British believe in constitutional monarchy because the throne is above politics. Prime ministers may come and go, but the king (or queen) always is there, equally able to play his part with conservatives or socialists. He is the best informed person in the country, so far as concerns affairs of state, for the very good reason that he has devoted his entire life to the study of Britain, the dominions and the colonies. King's Advice Counts.

That is the reason prime ministers go to the sovereign for advice—and very often take it. It would be a hardy prime minister who would go against the studied advice of the ruler in an emergency. Whether it be the subject wearing the "old school tie" or the chap with a cockney accent, he will accept the monarch's warning of danger.

So we see that the royal family is the focal point of the national life. That accounts for the warmth and affection being shown Princess Elizabeth on this great occasion.

To My Friends and Customers:

I want to express my sincere appreciation to my many friends and customers for their wonderful response in helping me celebrate my 49th year in business in Corsicana. I am indeed grateful for the many expressions of kindness and good will showered on me during the 10 days of the 49th Anniversary Event. It is indeed gratifying, after 49 years among you, to know that many families, whom I served at the beginning of my business career, are still represented among my regular customers. I was indeed touched when the 3rd generation of my original customers came in to remind me that their grand parents secured their wedding clothes at our place almost a half century ago.

My thanks go to all of you for having made these 49 years in Navarro county replete with pleasant memories and blessed friends. May the Almighty grant me the privilege of celebrating my 50th and Golden Anniversary in Texas, with my loyal and faithful friends.

B Movie Coming Back Into Own; MGM Eyes Some

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The B picture is coming back into its own. Now MGM is reportedly mulling the return of low-budget films to its production schedule. Double features are apparently here to stay and producers and theater owners are finding it increasingly difficult to make a profit by showing two expensive films on the same bill. The answer to the problem seems to be a return to B production.

Tightening its belt another notch, MGM is planning to bring back the B's to the Culver City lot next year. The new films will be geared at a cost of less than $700,000.

Maureen O'Hara hears she is to play a Russian countess in John Ford's "The Family." "So far I have been Spanish, English, German and American in pictures—everything but Irish," said Maureen, who is now a U. S. housewife in "Sitting Pretty." She'll finally play her own nationality in Ford's "The Quiet Man."

Gary Cooper starts his new deal with Warners this January. His first film will be "Copper Hill," a western adventure drama by Stephen Longstreet.

Roy Rogers may be trying to get his release from Republic, but Headman Herbert Yates doesn't appear worried. Yates says he elevated Rogers and his Sons of the Pioneers from "a bunch of singing cowboys" to their present status "and we can find another bunch."

Did you know that Robert Young's salary for "Crossfire" amounted to about one-fifth of the film's cost. The picture was made for $52,000, and not one set was built for it. Scenes were shot on standing sets or ones borrowed from other pictures.

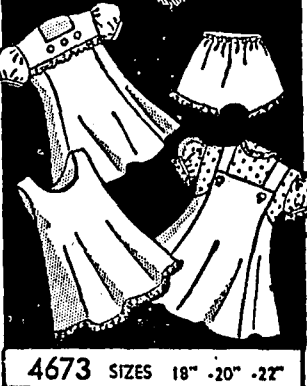

Ruth Hussey, out of pictures for two years because of stage and story appearances, is now working in "I, Jane Doe" at the Republic.

Vets Get More Aid. WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The veterans administration ruled today that World War II veterans studying overseas under terms of the GI bill are eligible for additional benefits under the Fulbright act.

Most Traditional Foods Plentiful In Thanksgiving Larder; New Bird Seen

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE AP Newsfeatures Writer.

WASHINGTON—Almost all of the traditional "makings" for Thanksgiving dinner—from turkey to pumpkin pie—are in good supply for American families this year.

Plenty of cranberries, pumpkins apples and nuts, along with large stocks of turkeys, ducks and chickens, are indicated by food supply reports of the U. S. department of agriculture. Huge stocks of wine still are on hand from the record crush of grapes in 1946.

This year's sweet potato crop is somewhat smaller than usual. While potato production is down considerably from last year's huge output, but there are no signs of a potato shortage.

There are large stocks of canned cranberries, and prices are expected to be somewhat lower than last year. About 130,000,000 pounds of pumpkin were canned last year, and the carry-over is substantial. The crop of the four principal tree nuts—almonds, walnuts, filberts and pecans—is 17 percent larger than the 1936-1945 average.

In some markets you can get your turkey in a wide variety of sizes and parts. There has been a big increase in the demand for the small turkey which fits more easily into modern ovens. It also does away with those three-day turkey-munching endurance contests to dispose of the remnants of a big bird.

Turkey is being marketed in halves, quarters, cut-up pieces and steaks. Turkey packers also are offering "full-drawn, frozen 'ready-to-cook' turkeys."

To meet the need of a handy-weight bird, the department of agriculture in 1934 started development of a small turkey with an abundance of meat. By 1941 the Beltsville small white turkey, named after the department's research center at Beltsville, Md., was developed. It met specifications, and distribution of surplus turkey eggs was made to state agricultural colleges.

The bronze, White Holland and Black varieties, the wild turkey and the White Austrian turkey, imported from Scotland, were first used in developing the small bird. In 1943 Broad Breasted Bronze blood was introduced.

Breeding work is being continued with the latter in the hope of further improving the type. The dressed weight of the Beltsville young turkeys at market age (24 to 26 weeks) is 10 to 15 pounds, averaging 13 pounds. Weight of young hens is 6 to 9 pounds, average 8 pounds.

Although there is a growing demand for the streamlined turkey and turkey parts, many folk still prefer to tackle a gigantic golden-brown bird like those which highlighted the Thanksgiving gorges of yesteryear.

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whit-tled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as over-dressed wisecracks, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

CORSICANA, TEX., NOV. 21, 1947

POSSIBLE PEACE

Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, in an article in the Rotarian says that every international problem can be permanent-ly solved by peaceful means, and no international problem can be solved satisfactorily or even temporarily by violence. "We must," says Lie, "obtain universal recognition and acceptance of this fact by a combination of practical demonstration and education."

The Secretary General observes that, while the entire resources of every country are needed if all its people are to have a decent life, every country which can do so is now building up armaments. He emphasizes the fact that it is impossible to imbue people with the idea of permanent peace while everyone is fearfully preparing for war.

Universal disarmament, says Mr. Lie, will be possible, however, on a basis which permits no cheating by any nation. The United Nations and its associated organizations, by the example they set in settling disputes and by the influence they wield educationally, should be responsible for bringing about a state of mind among all people which would make complete disarmament possible.

These statements have the ring of truth. The governing bodies of some nations, however, seem to be immune to such influences as the Secretary General mentions. It is up to the people of such countries, wherever they can make themselves heard. This is difficult or impossible to accomplish in a police state. But only by the insistence of people and peoples can peace come to the world.

AUSTRIA

When the Foreign Ministers meet in London the latter part of this month to draft peace treaties, Austria, it appears, will be a big stumbling block in the way of unity. This is because the United States, backed by England and France, is in disagreement with several Russian attitudes toward Austria.

In general, the Soviets claim a share of Austrian territory and economic resources on the basis that Austria should be punished for the help she gave Germany during the war. The other allies feel that Austria should be helped toward independent statehood.

Russia will ask that parts of Carinthia and Styria be added to Yugoslavia, and that that country also be given a substantial reparation sum by Austria. Such controversy is shaping over the definition of what are German assets in Austria since Russia claims these as war indemnity. The latter question is greatly complicated by Potsdam agreements of July, 1945, covering the properties which at that time Russia wanted.

One Austrian element on the side of the United States is the large anti-Communist group in Austria. Whether or not these Austrians can help stave off the Soviet demands is a question. Austria looms as of first rate importance in world news during the coming weeks.

TAKING CHILDREN CALMLY

Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician, psychiatrist, author of books on child-training, recently told a Chicago audience that modern parents need to relax and take their children less seriously. He said that the plethora of advice handed out to parents tends to make them grimly, determinedly dutiful, to the detriment of parent-child relationships. He urged that parents stop hovering over their offspring and cultivate a tactful casualness.

This sounds like a return to methods of three generations ago. Before children became the special object of study, from infancy through adolescence they were treated as members of the family, and not the most important members, either. As babies they were rocked and played with. As they grew they were given tasks and responsibilities suited to their age and strength, and were never given a false sense of importance. Final authority was vested in the parents, and there was usually a spirit of co-operation among the children.

Modern parents may well return to this well-balanced way of raising a family. If they can take what is good from modern studies, and there is much, without losing that firm, humorous, loving and purposeful good sense that Great-Grandma used, the next generation will really amount to something.

SCRAP PROBLEM

The European nations preparing to outline their needs according to the Marshall Plan have made known their desire for a million or more metric tons of steel scrap from America.

According to an article in Business Week, the Harrison committee, meeting in Washington, decided to turn down this request, recommending increased effort to collect scrap in continental Europe. The steel industry in the United States is trying to cope with an acute shortage of scrap and the battlefields of Europe are covered with millions of tons of ruined tanks, jeeps, trucks and armament, not to mention bombs. A small amount of this material was sold by the army last year to the Italian government and the British have made some shipments to their own steel mills, the Russians are making off with what they can, but a huge quantity still remains.

Many problems present themselves in this situation, among them labor and transportation. A concerted effort should be made, however, to clean the battlefields and provide scrap for Europe's needs.

We could use plenty, too. How about using ships, returning from sending farm machinery overseas, to bring us our share? This project would conform to the spirit of the Marshall Plan, which should ask of the United States nothing that could be obtained in Europe.

THE ITALY OF GARIBALDI

"He fought with Garibaldi." No prouder epitaph could be written of an Italian in the generation following the freeing of Italy, and no doubt the old phrase still holds its magic. It could have appeared on the tomb of Domenico Vairetta, a Cleveland of Italian origin who has just died at 101. He may have been the last American to wear the red shirt of Garibaldi's guerrillas; not many can be left in Italy itself.

Four men freed Italy from her many foreign rulers, and joined her into a whole. Giuseppe Mazzini, the fiery agitator, kept the flame of liberty alive through dark decades, and then when exiled from Italy, continued his work in England. Count Camillo di Cavour, statesman extraordinary, as chief minister of the King of Sardinia won a hearing for Italy at the Paris peace conference of 1856, and persuaded the French emperor Napoleon III to fight for the Italian cause in 1859. King Victor Emmanuel II of Sardinia, by his steadfastness and democracy, made an admirable figure to rally around. And Giuseppe Garibaldi provided the sword. None of the four could have been spared, but Garibaldi did the most conspicuous work, and won the greatest share of Italian affection.

THE TAMING OF THE SHOWOFF

The freeing of Italy was one of the 19th century's great achievements. Despite the later failings of Italian government, no one would wish the work of Cavour, Garibaldi and the rest to be undone.

GASLESS SUNDAYS

Add to the list of pleasant possibilities: gasless Sundays. These are predicted as likely within the next 12 months by P. R. Johnston, Toledo district manager of an oil company. He says that there is entirely too much driving for pleasure and other unnecessary driving, which remark sounds strange in the mouth of anyone in the oil and gasoline business.

World War I saw voluntary abstinence from driving on Sundays. Doctors and others on necessary errands labeled their cars, to prevent hostile comment. The ban was observed remarkably well; country roads were found empty by the few that ventured on them.

Would Americans of 1948 do as well? They would need to be convinced of the shortage of oil, which is in fact a shortage of storage and transportation facilities. They would also need to have it proved that this was not a mere trick to enhance profits, and that abstinence was really going to benefit the situation, and at a date not too distant.

WEDDING GIFTS

Poor Princess Elizabeth! She cannot exchange a single wedding gift, no matter how often duplicated. If she has 25 sugar-and-cream sets, her only hope is to save them for future Christmas presents, and not too soon, either.

Winston Churchill can sympathize. So many friends remembered his wedding that, like all good Englishmen with a problem on their hands, he wrote to the London Times about it.

"What is a man to do," Churchill asked plaintively, "with 75 cigaret cases?"

TOTALLY IRRELEVANT

The 1948 election will be one of the most significant of all time, says Dean Wilbur W. White of the Western Reserve University Graduate School. It will determine, perhaps beyond recall, American foreign policy and settle whether there will be peace or war.

Unfortunately all this is wasted on large numbers of voters. What they are interested in, says Dean White, are such irrelevant factors as "how the candidate's wife would look in the White House, or his own fine Irish (or Swedish or Italian or other) name, or whether he kissed their baby or shook their hand last September, or whether he is a loyal member of the Ecstatic Brother of Poobah."

Voters who are interested only in such trifles will gain nothing but trifles if their candidate wins.

Believe it or not, it's a good idea for statesmen to take the public into their confidence occasionally. Every once in a while you find a citizen with an idea.

CINCINNATI'S CHOICE

New York voted proportional representation out of its city charter by a three to one vote, but Cincinnati, which has had it for over 20 years, voted to retain it.

Whatever moved New York, Cincinnati identified proportional representation with good government. Its great opponent was the old machine which, when in power, made Cincinnati the nation's worst-governed city, and which for years has been trying to come back. Without proportional representation the gang controlled the city almost unopposed; with it, it has had only its legitimate share of members.

New York may yet come to regret its decision.

FOOLS AND CROOKS

"The general situation here is perfectly unspeakable. A greater lot of perfectly incompetent, apparently thoroughly crooked people has never, so far as I know, run or attempted to run a first-class country."

This modern-sounding utterance is not so recent as it seems. J. P. Morgan the younger wrote it in 1914 to Henry White, the diplomat who in 1919 was one of President Wilson's commissions at Paris. The nefarious piece of blundering and wickedness which provoked this outburst was the Federal Reserve Act, now recognized as the pillar that holds

Committee Will Leave Save-Food Drive To Agencies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Citizens' Food Committee is giving up active participation in the food conservation program it started, but the program—including meatless Tuesdays—will go on. Officials said the committee, headed by Charles Luckman, will turn the food-saving campaign over to regular government departments, but will continue to offer advice. Luckman, they said, has been anxious to return to his job as president of Lever Bros. Soap Company.

Luckman conferred with President Truman and other administration officials yesterday, and one of those in the know indicated an agreement had been reached on a plan for shifting the emergency program to a long-range one.

The save-food campaign now will be in the hands of the cabinet food committee, which includes Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Secretary of Commerce Harrison.

up the nation's financial structure.

Morgan was a conservative, objecting to newfangled ideas that altered his ways of doing business. But even conservatives should not blow their tops without sounder reasons than those which moved Morgan.

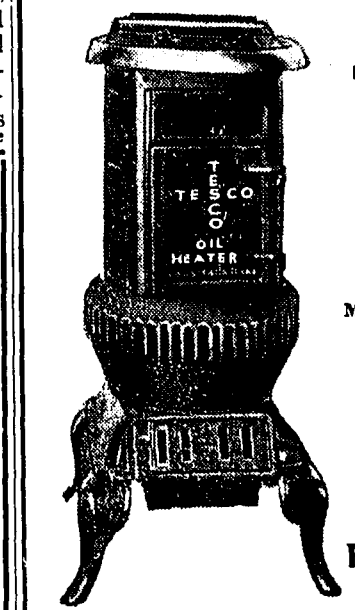

The Soviet Union, calling Uncle Sam a "war monger," could be answered by the boy in a similar case who said with dignity, "All dem tings vot you say I is, you is dem."

No matter what the House Committee on Un-American Activities may say, American filmgoers will refuse to believe that Mickey Mouse is a Communist agent.

Princess Elizabeth's wedding presents include a pair of nylons encrusted with pearls, which alone cost $1,050. Don't let your wife see this item.

Gasoline prices are rising, but cheer up. Sooner or later we'll be operating automobiles with atomic energy. The accent is on the "later."

It's a good idea to concentrate on domestic problems for a while, and stop this ruinous trend toward inflation.

Reports On Recent Pan-American Round Table Convention Given By Martha Sullenberger, Mrs. Mowlam

Highlights of the recent state meeting of The Pan-American Round Table of Texas in Laredo were brought by Mrs. Martha Sullenberger, official delegate, and Mrs. W. V. Mowlam, director of the local Pan-American Round Table, when members assembled in regular luncheon session at Kinslow House on Tuesday.

In her sparkling and witty manner, Mrs. Sullenberger spoke of the social side of the convention, which convened Nov. 12th and continued through Nov. 14th, describing the various luncheons, etc. She mentioned the luncheon in the Seiva Room of the Hotel Hamilton where Mrs. E. G. Clingenspeel, state associate director presided, and Philip A. Kazen, president of the Laredo Bar Association, was guest speaker.

Mrs. Sullenberger spoke of the Lions' International Dinner on Hamilton Hotel Roof, where state officers and delegates to the Round Table meeting were guests, and where R. Roy Keaton, of Chicago, assistant secretary of Lions International, was guest speaker.

Other social occasions of the state meeting included a luncheon at Cadillac Bar in Nuevo Laredo, a reception in the patio of Hotel Hamilton, and a formal dinner on Hotel Hamilton Roof, where The Honorable Walter Thurston, American Ambassador to Mexico, contributed the address of the evening.

Mrs. Mowlam's Report
In a more serious manner, Mrs. Mowlam reviewed outstanding business features of the state meeting. She opened her discussion by paying tribute to the hostess city, Laredo, where the American and international backgrounds are intricately interwoven, and where the ideals of Pan-Americanism are lived daily and not just at convention time.

The Pan-American Round Table movement was started by a group of far-sighted women in San Antonio twenty-six years ago, and is patterned after the Pan-American Union between the countries of this hemisphere. Mrs. Mowlam told her listeners that the union includes the Americas and Cuba, has a pattern for each country regardless of size, and allows one voting representative, with two non-voting advisers or aides.

The speaker, Ambassador Walter Thurston as having said at the Friday night banquet, "We have put aside the Big Stick Policy. The Monroe Doctrine fostered the idea that we were going to protect each country in this hemisphere whether they wanted to be protected or not. Recently in Brazil, the Pan-American countries, advocates of the Good Neighbor Policy, signed an agreement to protect this hemisphere against foreign ideology and aggression. And now, in these few months we are all unifying our types of armaments and each country is using its own method to get rid of foreign ideologies."

Mrs. Mowlam quoted Mrs. L. G. Waltrip of Dallas, new state director, as having said, "Pan-American Round Table is a movement and is gaining added force every day."

"Pan-American Round Table" has more than 1400 members in Texas," Mrs. Philip Kazen, director of the Laredo Table, was quoted as having told the delegates.

Quoting from a report by Mrs. Maurice Hugo of Mexico City, director general of the Inter-American Alliance, Mrs. Mowlam revealed that it is the plan of UNESCO of the United Nations Organization to use the Pan-American Round Table to assist in its work of abolishing illiteracy, and informing each nation on how and why the other nations live. Members of the Round Tables are now burning the mid-night oil formulating plans for co-operation with UNESCO. Mrs. Hugo was quoted as having told convention members.

In her concluding remarks, Mrs. Hugo was reported by Mrs. Mowlam to have challenged Pan-American Round Table members as follows: "When a man and his family are ill clothed and hungry he has no time to think of uplifting his fellow-man or see what results his actions may have on the future world, therefore an agitator who promises improvement of conditions for his family is a savior to him. We who are here with education and leisure have time to view the effects of such action, and if we do not protect the less fortunate of God's creatures from such invasion, we ourselves must pay the bitter price along with the world. So let us, as women of the Western Hemisphere, get behind the Pan-American Round Table and PUSH and PUSH."

Blessed Session
Mrs. Allen Edens, Jr., used as an invocation for Tuesday's meeting a prayer that was composed by Dr. Matthew Arnold for the local Round Table. Mrs. F. E. McPherson read minutes of last meeting and Mrs. J. A. Silverberg brought the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Mowlam presided for routine features of the meeting, and introduced Miss Sullenberger who reviewed social high points of the Laredo convention. Mrs. Mowlam followed with a report on more serious activities of the convention.

Reports On Recent Pan-American Round Table Convention Given By Martha Sullenberger, Mrs. Mowlam

The next meeting of the local Table will be held on December 16th, at which time Mrs. Claude White will discuss "Brazil." Rich-hued chrysanthemums and glowing white tapers, crystal holders adorned the luncheon table where covers were laid for the following members and guests: Mesdames W. V. Mowlam, Chas. Highnote, Allen Edens, Jr., J. A. Silverberg, Abe Goldberg, Chas. J. Davis, Randolph Jackson, J. M. Tullos, Curtis Keen, W. Kirko Steele, Miss Martha Sullenberger, Mesdames Lynne A. Wortham, Sid Story, F. E. McPherson, Mrs. D. Almond and Mrs. John N. Harris of Dallas.

Sidelights on Convention
Additional sidelights on convention as gleaned from press articles: "Texas, the cradle of the Good Neighbor Policy, strangely enough, is the greatest offender in discrimination, bigotry, and prejudice toward Mexicans and people of Latin-American descent, former District Attorney Philip A. Kazen of Laredo told the Pan-American Round Table delegates."

"The searching light of truth and publicity must be focused on this malignant tumor," he stated. "To remain silent in the face of such dangers, which will undermine our national unity and our international prestige and solidarity would be a betrayal of our heritage."

The speaker suggested to the women of the Round Table that they accept the challenge and exercise their leadership in improving conditions.

Proposals to Round Table members were that they demand that the Governor appoint at least two of their members to the Good Neighbor Commission when vacancies occur; that scholarships be established for Texans for research in social sciences for guidance in breaking down the barriers of discrimination; that the study of Spanish be compulsory in grammar and high schools of Texas; that adequate anti-discrimination laws be passed in Texas. He also urged translation and dissemination among the masses of Latin-America, under Pan-American Round Table sponsorship, of pamphlets on works of such patriots and lovers of democracy as Washington, Patrick Henry, Jefferson and Lincoln.

NEW FHA METHOD OF INSURING LOANS TO FARMERS EXPLAINED

L. J. CAPPLEMAN, DALLAS, STATE DIRECTOR, ROTARY SPEAKER TODAY

Response of Texas bankers to the new Farmers Home Administration plan of insuring loans of tenant farmers in order for them to become farm owners has been highly encouraging, L. J. Cappleman of Dallas, state director of FHA, said Wednesday in an address before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Navarro Hotel.

Skeptical at first when plans for the government to change its system of financing the purchase of home farms by tenants, both FHA and the bankers have agreed as to its usefulness, Cappleman said.

The first loan of this type to be made in Texas will go through next week, Cappleman announced.

Under the new system, private banks make the loans up to 90 percent, the tenant possessing 10 percent of the purchase price. The government insures the loan and pays the interest up to 2.5 percent.

Formerly the government under the Bankhead-Jones act financed such tenant-purchased farms. Cappleman said it was "gratifying" that of the $30,000,000 loaned to 5,000 purchasers in Texas not a dollar has been lost as yet.

Bankers Approve Method
"My desk in Dallas is covered with letters from Texas bankers accepting the new means of financing these tenants who want to become farmers in their own right," he said.

"They say they are willing to make this type of loan for several reasons. One of them is that they like a home-owned community. Another is they like for the money in the bank to go out to community methods. And still another is that they have the money, the majority of which is not drawing 2.5 percent."

Finance Tenant Farmer
"Private capital and the U. S. government today are combining to finance the tenant farmer," he added. "I hope this first loan will be the forerunner of many to help tenant farmers become farm owners."

Cappleman, discussing the farm in general, reported to the Rotary that at a recent cross-section meeting of farmers designed to learn what "the farmer in thinking" three pertinent points were established.

"The larger percent," he said, "favored more soil conservation work, price support at parity levels with acreage allotments if necessary, and a desire for more farmer-owned and farmer-operated farms."

Too Many Big Farms
"It was the consensus," he said, "that too many big farmers are crowding the home-type farmer out."

Cappleman was introduced by Harrison Fendley, local FHA supervisor. He also introduced Louis Dunbar of Dallas, district supervisor, and Miss Edna Williams, Corsicana office manager.

Other guests included Jack Jones and Jimmy Cavender, junior Rotarians; Ralph E. Tinkle of Dallas and F. H. Wadley of Arlington, visiting Rotarians, and Charles F. Frost of Corsicana and Walter Jones of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Williams will spend the week-end in the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Mahan in Dallas. Mrs. Mahan is a niece of Mr. Williams.

IOOF

The Corsicana Country Club Saturday night at 7 o'clock. Present and past officers of the various branches will be presented on this occasion. The affair will be informal. No set program has been arranged. Chairman Dupree will preside. A musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Lenore Clarke of Dallas. The Lightfoot family will also appear on the musical program. Mrs. Gladys Wright of Dallas is co-chairman.

Public Invited
In a joint statement issued by State Chairman Dupree, Mr. and Mrs. Conley Lovelace, superintendent and matron of the Home, and Paul Moore, chairman of the local arrangements committee, the public is invited to attend the ceremonies Sunday, hear the governor and inspect the new home, termed in the Texas IOOF News this week as "The White House of Texas."

"The public, Corsicana and Navarro county, is cordially invited to attend the dedicatory services and join with the membership of the order in celebrating the completion of this new Home for our children."

Huge Crowd Expected
Reports reaching headquarters here and in Dallas are that chartered busses from all sections of Texas will begin arriving Saturday with the majority scheduled to reach Corsicana Sunday about noon. Bus company spokesmen are credited with the statement that all available busses have been chartered.

Corsicana committees will be on hand Saturday afternoon for registration and information at the headquarters at the Navarro Hotel. Committees will also be at the hotel Sunday morning to assist the visitors.

All rooms in local hotels and tourist camps have been reserved. An attendance of more than 250 at the dinner-dance Saturday night is indicated, and most of them will have hotel reservations.

Program Starts at 1:30
Loud-speakers will be provided. The program begins at 1:30 p. m. Sunday with the singing of "America."

Rev. Jack Goff, pastor of the Northside Baptist church, Corsicana, will give the invocation and the benediction at the conclusion.

Representatives of the ex-students association, Theta Rho Girls, Ladies Auxiliary, Grand Encampment of Texas, Canton, board of trustees, local committee and several recent past grandmasters and past presidents of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, will be presented from the speaker's platform by Chairman Dupree.

Officials Will Speak
Grandmaster Clarence E. Woods of Lubbock, a native of Navarro county, and Mrs. Louise Beins of Houston, president of the Rebekahs, will make short addresses.

while M. M. Madison, Sweetwater, past grandmaster and chairman of the board of trustees, will formally name and present the structure to the grandmaster.

Ranking officials of the Canton, uniformed branch, have called a statewide mobilization here Sunday, and will have charge of the parking of busses and cars, will form an official escort for the governor and Judge Wheeler, and will be the official hosts in the new building during the time of the inspection of the premises by the expected huge throng.

The speakers stand has been erected in front of the new building, but in the event of inclement weather, the ceremonies will be moved inside.

Students of the Home will have charge of concessions on the grounds and have made plans to dispense plenty of hot dogs, soda water, etc.

That there will be plenty of visitors is shown in the report that Southside Lodge No. 156 of Fort Worth has chartered five busses for the trek to Corsicana Sunday.

Co-Op Campaign
Co-operation of all members of the Navarro County Electric Co-Op in combating the wasteful and dangerous practice of shooting at powerline insulators has been sought by officials of the concern during the hunting season. The public's co-operation is also sought.

Replacement of broken and cracked insulators last year cost $100, out of funds and revenues of the co-operative, not to mention the inconvenience and loss of power to the individual consumers during the time the service was interrupted, a spokesman said.

William Hacker, orchestra conductor and lecturer on music, will open the annual Celebrity Series at Kinsloe House on January 16th, with Miss Frances Broadstreet as chairman.

Home Demonstration Clubs Met In Luncheon Session Saturday

Bring In Producer In Navarro County

Oil activity is expected to be revived in northeast Navarro county near Trinity river following the reported completion of a good flowing well by W. W. Techner of Dallas No. 2-D. W. J. Trammel, P. Norton survey, finished with 153 barrels of 44-gravity oil daily through a quarter-inch choke. The perforations are reported at 2,886-90 in the Woodbine.

Intent to drill originally was filed by the Topaz Oil Company in 1941, in which Techner is interested, but work was started recently on a 40-acre tract. Tentative plans are for two more locations on the 40-acre lease.

Lechner a few days ago sought a new field allowable from the Texas Railroad Commission.

This lease is in a big bend in the Trinity River on the Navarro county side and is nearer the Flag Lake area than the Baggett production to the southwest.

On Hunting Trip
Cecil Moore, Glenn Bell and Walter Beaton have gone on a hunting trip to Victorreal Ranch near Kerrville.

Immediately after the luncheon and program, Mrs. Kyle Stokes conducted a short business session, with eleven clubs answering roll call.

The chairman of the expansion committee reported five new members and twenty visitors at club meetings last month.

Mrs. Hedrick, E. Bell, secretary, announced that a training school for new program chairman and club presidents will be held at the YMCA on December 17 at 2 o'clock p. m.

The THDA reporter, Mrs. Percy Varnell of Barry, urged those who haven't mailed their "measure your club" reports to her, to do so at once.

Announcement was made that the annual Christmas party will be held at the YMCA on December 13 at 2 o'clock p. m., and that lunches and gifts will be exchanged. The gifts should cost at least 50 cents and should be made at home. Each club will bring two gifts for 4-H Club girls, and they should cost at least $1 each, according to announcement. The 4-H Club girls will be invited to the party. The demonstrators will be honor guests. The girls are requested to bring gifts and lunches to exchange.

Mrs. Stokes introduced Rosella Cook, home demonstration agent from District 9, who stated that she is doing everything possible to get an assistant agent to work with the 4-H Club girls, but at present she has no prospect in view.

The king, queen and their royal guests pelted them with confetti.
Duke Salutes Memorial
Driving down Whitehall to Waterloo station, the princess waved a gloved hand, smiled and nodded at the throng. The duke saluted as they passed the Cenotaph, Britain's principal memorial to her war dead.
They reached the station at 4:16 p. m. The princess, appearing a little tired, wore a going-away costume of a blue called lone-in-the-mist. The princess took along one of her Welsh Corgi dogs.
The couple walked along a red carpet that stretched 40 feet to their car. The train left at 4:19 p. m.

Go to Esate.
They will go to the estate of Earl Mountbatten, the bridegroom's uncle, where sentry boxes and a police patrol were set up to guard them.

Londoners had gathered early in the streets, some coming in the night, and they refused to go home hours after the ceremony. There were drizzles in the early morning, but blue patches of sky appeared as the wedding service began.
At times, the princess' responses to the ceremony were almost inaudible to the spectators but the voice of the duke was deep and clear.

Russian Envoy Present.
Prime Minister Attlee and former Prime Minister Churchill shared the spectators' section with peers of the realm. Russian ambassador, George N. Zarubin, was attentive. A Buckingham Palace spokesman said there had been no gift or message of congratulation from the Soviet government—at least up to noon today.

The wedding day, greatest occasion for Britons since George VI became king, brought a bright splash of color to the fabric of a nation rent by bombs and economic ills.

Elizabeth, her face radiant above an ivory satin gown embroidered with thousands of pearls, wore a diamond tiara and a lipstick suited to television cameras.

"Love, Cherish and Obey."
Before the Archbishop of Canterbury, who presided over a crowd of nearly 3,000 kings, priests and commoners, the 21-year-old bride, promised to love, cherish and obey her 26-year-old betrothed.

The bridegroom, Lt. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy and son of the prince of Greece, is now "His Royal Highness" and a duke, Earl and Baron. King George VI knighted him yesterday.

Queen Mother Mary saw her granddaughter married. Absent from the ceremony were the Duke of Windsor, whose abdication brought Elizabeth's father to the throne and made her heiress presumptive, and the American-born, twice divorced duchess.

Brief patches of blue sky appeared as the wedding began, after an early morning drizzle.

Archbishop Officiates.
The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, intoned the words, "I now pronounce that they are man and wife" at 11:46 a. m. (5:45 a. m. CST) as the bride and groom knelt before the altar in Westminster Abbey.

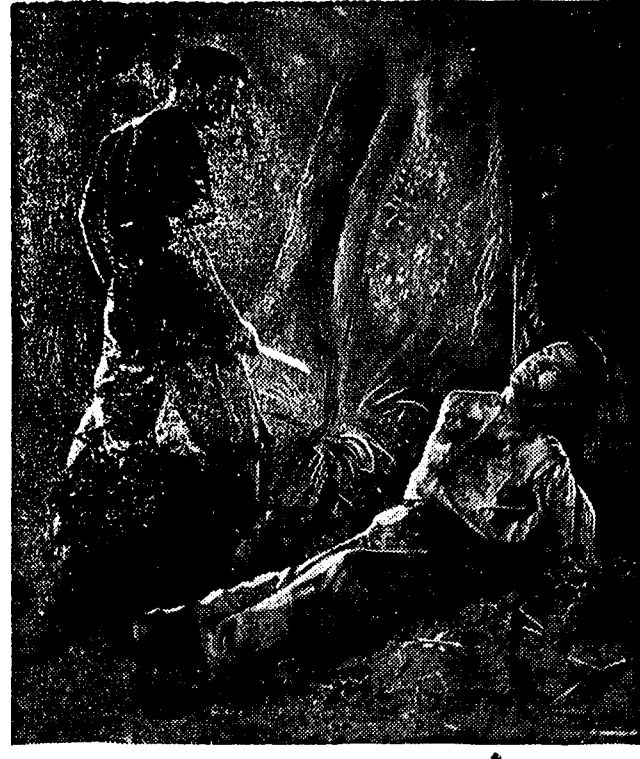

In the traditional words of the Church of England marriage service, Princess Elizabeth and the duke promised to love and to cherish each other for better or for worse, in sickness and in health until death. Their responsive "I wills" to the archbishop's questions were barely audible in the crowded Abbey.

Traditional Promises Vowed.
The marriage lines of the princess, which she repeated in a voice almost inaudible at times, conformed the promise "to love, cherish, and to obey" her new husband. The duke's marriage lines, repeated in a deep, clear voice, used only the words: "To love and to cherish," omitting the word "obey."

Nearly 3,000 persons—kings, queens, bluebloods and commoners—witnessed the ceremony.

As the two left the Abbey, church bells rang out, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of the waiting thousands outside.

Attlee, Churchill Present.
Prime Minister Attlee and his predecessor, Winston Churchill, smiled at the young couple as they

AT IDEAL NEXT WEEK—Walter Brennan, ruler of the terror-filled Okefenokee swamp, threatens Dana Andrews with death in a scene from "Swamp Water," the 20th Century-Fox encore thriller which will play at the Ideal Theatre here Sunday and Monday, Nov. 23 and 24. passed up the aisle after signing the marriage register in the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor, founder of the Abbey.

When the princess and her groom entered the royal coach for the return trip to Buckingham Palace, the relief of the two young pages—Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent—became evident. They had been having some difficulty with the princess' train.

On the way back to the palace, both the princess and the duke, who received his royal title from King George VI last night, waved at the throngs of people along the route. Many of these had waited all night and been soaked in an intermittent drizzle.

Princess Radiant.
The 21-year-old princess was radiant with happiness as she appeared for the ceremony in a mist of dewy white satin. Her gown sparkled with a thousand lights reflected, softened and shaded in a delicate embroidery of crystal and pearls.

Waiting for her in the Lantern, at the foot of the steps to the sacralium, was her handsome, 26-year-old bridegroom, attired in the uniform of a lieutenant of the Royal Navy, in which he served during and since the war.

In the church, the nave, the choir and the transepts shone with royal magnificence—a scene of high pomp and solemn religion, reflecting gold, purple, crimson and rose shadings from the walls.

Kneeling on pillows on the steps of the red and gold sanctuary, the Royal couple followed the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, through the traditional marriage ceremony of the Church of England.

As Philip and the princess spoke their respective "I wills" and repeated their vows to love, honor and comfort each other in sickness and in health forever, their voices were broadcast to a listening world.

Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder, intoned the archbishop, primate of all England.

Marriage Declared.
Gazing out over the congregation, he continued:
"Forasmuch as Philip and Elizabeth Alexandra Mary have consented together in holy wedlock, and have witnessed the same before God and this company, and thereto have given and pledged their troth either to the other, and have declared the same by giving and receiving of a ring, and by joining of hands; I pronounce that they are man and wife together, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

Thus another scene was added to the richly illuminated pages of English history, as two great-grandchildren of Queen Victoria were linked in matrimony.

Distantly Related.
Princess Elizabeth and Philip officially are considered to be third cousins, although the distant blood relationship admittedly is complicated in the line of descent. Actually they stand between sec-

Unselfishness In Love Is Urged On Princess, Husband

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—True love, the Archbishop of York advised Princess Elizabeth and her bridegroom today, "must always be unselfish, and unselfishness is the true secret of a happy married life."

His address to the couple was made after the Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten, now His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, man and wife.

But, the Archbishop of York told them, "must show itself not only in great moments of heroic self sacrifice, but continually in all the small duties and incidents of everyday life."

"It means thoughtfulness and patience; ready sympathy and forbearance; talking over and sharing together the special interests and cares which each of you will have. And thus you will learn to bear one another's burdens as you walk on the road to life, making the journey together with happiness."

Whole Country Rejoices.
Throughout the country, in every town and village and farmhouse, and upon the high seas, millions of loyal Britons rejoiced, not thinking of the ceremony as something to be shared only by those comparatively few who witnessed it.

Radio and television provided a personal link between the princess and many of her people.

Scotland Yard estimated the crowds jamming the route of the wedding procession at more than 1,000,000 people. They assembled hours before the ceremonies began, waiting patiently in a chill, intermittent drizzle.

Clyde explained why the Tyler newspaper established a radio station, including "future of television, FM and facsimile broadcast." He said the newspapers with which he is associated wanted to bring these progressive developments to the public as they are proved practical.

"Actually we have noticed little or no 'economics' in either the radio or newspaper business for some time," he said, but the Federal Communications Commission recently published an excellent study on the "economics" of the operation, "particularly in regard to new stations."

Clyde said: "The Federal Communications Commission has been uniformly fair in its treatment from the state of application to operation. Also, we have received fine cooperation from Texans already in the radio business."

He said that Tyler has one full-time and two day-only radio stations in a city of about 45,000 population and that the radio field is crowded both according to the Federal Communications Commission and the findings of his own station.

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Prince Subha Svastivaj, chief Siamese delegate to the United Nations, told reporters today that a "legal government" of Siam is operating underground in his country and still is recognized by the United Nations as the rightful government of Siam.

Prince Svastivaj left his seat as vice-chairman of the U. N. Assembly, special Palestine committee to make the statement that he had received a message from the Siam underground movement asking him to inquire whether it still was recognized by the United Nations.

He said the U. N. Protocol section had assured him that the government in hiding is recognized as the "legal government." He said he understood that the American State department was taking the same position on Siam.

Wedding Gown Of Princess Elizabeth

This is an artist's impression of the Princess gown of ivory duchesse satin, cut on classic lines, with fitted bodice, long light sleeves and full-falling skirt, which Princess Elizabeth wore for her wedding today.

The broad, heart-shaped neckline of the bodice is delicately edged with graduated satin flowers, and crystal in floral design. From the pointed waistline, formed by a girlish of pearl embroidered star flowers, the swirling skirt is hand embroidered in exquisite design, inspired by the paintings of Botticelli, representing garlands of white York roses carried out by the bride.

A full court train, 15 feet long, of transparent ivory silk tulle attached to the shoulders, is edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming the deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train.

A reversed type of embroidery, as used on the wedding gown, is here employed in the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroidered roses. An ethereal voluminous veil of crisp white tulle is held by a train of pearls and diamonds. (AP Photo.)

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A handful of special stocks responded to good corporate news with a strong upswing in today's market although many leaders exhibited considerable reluctance in following suit.

Income tax selling provided a brake on the start but switching by liquidators was an offsetting influence. The direction generally was upward throughout. Steels came to the fore in the final hour. While plus signs on the whole ranged to a point or so, there were several much wider jumpers. On the other hand, the losing side was fairly well represented at the close. It was the sixth consecutive session without an average decline. Transfers ran to around 900,000 shares.

United Drywood preferred yielded 9 points in the wake of a deferred dividend. Lower were Pacific Western Oil, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Worthington Pump, Owens-Illinois and International Nickel. International Business Machines climbed about 16 points in further response to the split up plan. A pleasing disbursement and a split proposal lifted Union Pacific some 9 points. Allied Chemical added several points as split up talk was heard for this stock.

Twenty-Four Extra Points Kicked By Educated Toe Of Kelly Burkhart For Tigers In One Of Best Records Ever

By TALMADGE CANANT
Sun Sports Staff.

Corsicana's Tigers, still very much in the running for the District 10-AA football crown, have made a total of 228 points in their 1947 games. They have made 33 touchdowns, for 198 points.

Twenty-four of the other points were gained when the oblate spheroid was propelled, with what we will call accuracy, for want of a better word, between two upright white posts and over a cross-bar connecting the two, by a toe attached to the leg of one Kelly Burkhart.

In the far-reaching corners of the state, sportswriters and coaches are beginning the hue and cry that is part of the yearly quest for schoolboy all-state aggregations. Kelly Burkhart may not make one of those mythical teams, for reasons over which he has no control, but Corsicans will match his facility for making the point after touchdown with any high school griddier in the state's AA circuit. If there is someone who has a better average in that department than he has, they are either overlooking it, or keeping quiet about it.

Sixteen In Row.
The sandy-haired, 185-pound full-back added five successful kicks in five tries to his record last Friday night at Ennis, to run his successive string of conversions without a miss to 16. Starting with the Tigers' last non-district game on October 10 against Palestine, when he converted five out of five, Burkhart has not missed a point conversion in five games. He has converted 24 times successfully, missed four, and had four blocked.

There has only been one game during that time when the kick meant the difference between victory and defeat for the Tigers. That was in Hillsboro, where Burkhart's name is well-remembered. There the Tigers came from behind in the last quarter and beat the Eagles 21-20.

A one-point loss is a bitter pill to take, but some coaches still don't lay much stress on conversion of extra points. Boyd Payne drills his gridders in that department daily because of that not-so-rare occasion when an extra point is just as good as a touchdown.

It takes plenty of work to do it, and it isn't a haphazard job. Bill Davis, who, with Burkhart, is co-captain of the Tigers, always holds the ball for the kick, because of his ability to take the ball from center, and get it set up in the proper position in the few precious seconds allocated.

Bob Douglas is always at the center spot for the point conversion, because he rifles the ball back and gets it to Davis low and correctly.

While all this is going on, the other eight members of the team are not standing by idly. The other linemen have to make it virtually impossible for an opponent to penetrate their line in time to block the boot, and the other backfield members are ready to cut down any who break through the line, or skirt end and come in. Just like any other part of the grid game, the extra point is a matter of teamwork.

Burkhart Is Fullback.
Burkhart's value on the football field does not end with the conversion of extra point, however. He plays much of the time at the fullback post, because he is a relatively big, bruising runner, and on frequent occasions picks up considerable yardage in thrusts into the line. He is credited with being one of the best blocking backs in the Tiger backfield.

Few fans, except those who visit the practice field regularly, know that Burkhart has played through most of the Tiger district schedule to date with a charley horse in his kicking leg. Close watchers can notice a perceptible favoring of one leg as he runs on and off the field. For that reason, he has not booted the Tiger kick-offs in a number of games, and has seen little service in others.

48 Points Made.
In total scoring, Kelly has made 48 points this season, 24 by touchdowns, and 24 by point conversions. His best nights at the running game were against Waco, when he went through the Tiger line time after time, although he never made a touchdown, and against Ennis, when he went over for two touchdowns and personally accounted for 17 points.

In the kicking department, his last five games, four of which have been district affairs, have been perfect for him. In games against Palestine and Ennis, he kicked five out of five.

King of High School.
The griddier is 17 years old and is playing his last year of eligibility at the high school. He is an honor student, and his popularity among his schoolmates is proved by the fact that he has been elected king of the high school student body, and will be crowned at the annual coronation exercises to be held soon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Burkhart, of 3312 West Fourth avenue.

Robertson, Route 4, Corsicana, Miss Robertson, a senior, was chosen by popular vote of the team.—(Taylor Photo.)

Deer Hunters Are Meeting Success In Llano County

A number of Corsicana hunters in the Llano county sector have bagged deer since the season opened Sunday, Nov. 16, reports coming back indicate, although most of the parties do not plan to return until later in the week.

Messages received Tuesday were that Ed Wendorf and Graham Dickson had secured two bucks each while Wilbur Thompson and Guy R. Love had one each. Hugh Sifton, Dr. H. B. Love and Will Thompson of that group had not secured a buck the first two days.

Seven of 11 men in another Llano county group bagged one buck each during the first two days of the season, returning to Corsicana Monday night. Those getting one buck each at the Danny T. Nicholson ranch were Capt. Dan Story, H. R. Stroube, Jr., a 12 pointer, H. R. Stroube, Jack Stroube, Joe Stroube, C. M. Gillespie and Charles Holloway. Those failing to bag one were J. N. Garitty, W. C. Stroube and Alex Hickey, all of Corsicana, and David McElwraith, Harlingen, formerly of Corsicana.

Reports of later successes and from other groups in various sections of the deer country are expected within a few days.

House Damaged By Fire.
Fire at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday damaged a house at 1204 East Sixth avenue, the blaze being confined for the most part to the roof. Fire Chief H. P. Givins said the house belonged to Wm. Wilson and was occupied by Annie Bonner.

Corporation Court

Crime, in its minor divisions and sub-divisions, took the night off Wednesday night, according to the police blotter. As is usual in similar cases when night patrolmen have nothing to do but patrol, the night sergeant punched out his typewritten message of "We have nothing to report to-night, period."

Drivers of two vehicles were to appear in corporation court Thursday as a result of a minor crash at Main and Collin Wednesday afternoon. Police reported a 1941 Cadillac driven by James P. Gibson, 416 North Thirteenth street, ran into the rear of a 1946 pickup truck driven by Campbell Gillespie, 218 South Fifteenth street. Two wreckers dropped by, but damage was negligible.

The thief who prowled a car belonging to Eugene Tucker, 302 West Fourth avenue, Wednesday night as it was parked by the house on the Twelfth street side will have to wait a few months to enjoy the fruits of his stealthy labors. He got a pair of sunglasses. Also missing was a voltmeter, Tucker reported to the police department Thursday morning.

Mrs. E. B. Dawson, who recently moved to Dawson, will be in Corsicana on Friday afternoon to attend the annual silver tea of the WSCS of First Methodist Church at the O. L. Albritton home.

Bulldogs Improve.
The Navarro Bulldogs had a rather disastrous early season in 1947, losing three conference games while the team was riddled with injuries. Two of the losses were to Hillsboro and Henderson County, who are the powers in the loop.

During the last three weeks the Bulldogs have gotten the members of their squad back on the active list, and have given a good account of themselves in the last two games. They outplayed Clifton in Clifton, but were able to come out with only a scoreless tie.

TOUGH TEMPLE IS FRIDAY OPPONENT FOR HIGH SCHOOL

TEXAS MILITARY TEAM OF TERRELL HERE SATURDAY EVENING

The shank end of the football season is drawing near, and Corsicana's two football teams play at home this week end in contests that mean much to their season records.

The Corsicana Tigers, again occupying the underdog role, will go up against the Temple Wildcats on Tiger Field Friday night at 8 o'clock in what may amount to their last chance to cop a district 10-AA championship in over a decade.

Tickets On Sale.
Tickets for Friday's game here are on sale at McAdams Pharmacy, P. and S. Pharmacy, Ware's High School Drug Store, Stop and Eat Drive In, and the high school office. Though the weather may not be ideal for the tilt, officials expect a large crowd to turn out for the contest.

The Navarro Junior College Bulldogs, out of the running for the northern zone championship of the conference, will try to use their new-found strength to beat Texas Military of Terrell on Tiger Field Saturday night at 8 o'clock and carve for themselves a niche in the upper half of the standings.

Friday's game between Corsicana and Temple could easily hold the key to the 10-AA scramble. Should Corsicana win it, the Tigers will be the overwhelming favorite to cop the district crown and go into the bi-district play-offs.

However, the Temple 'Cats will have a heavy weight advantage. They held the Waxahachie Indians to a scoreless tie last week in Temple, and thus will be the betting favorites in most quarters. They have not lost a district game this year, but are ineligible to take the title because of a ruling made by the interscholastic league regarding a practice game played by the 'Cats this spring.

Waco, tied with Corsicana for the lead at present, will have an ear tuned to the contest here while they are playing Cleburne Friday. Waxahachie, half a nose behind Waco and Corsicana, can win the district only if they beat Hillsboro Friday, and if Temple beats both Corsicana and Waco.

Bulldogs Improve.

District Play Ends In 25-B Loop With Kerens On Top

All of the football teams in District 25-B, except the Kerens Bobcats, have put away their togs this week after terminating the season's play in the district last week end.

It was a season that saw the balance of power in the hands of two teams, the Kerens Bobcats and the State Home Lads. There were other good teams in the district, but they fell before those two powers.

The district championship was determined, for all practical purposes, on Nov. 7, when Kerens trimmed State Home by a 29-13 count.

Outside of the top two teams, the rest were fairly evenly matched. The Hubbard Jaguars came out on top of the other teams, coping third place in the standings with three games won, three lost and one tied, for a .500 average.

The Mildred Eagles and the Dawson Bulldogs ended neck and neck with 429 each to tie for fourth place. Each had won two games, lost three and tied two. In order of the ladder, were Blooming Grove, Frost and Italy.

Though Frost finished down on the tail end of the column, it gained a victory over its traditional rival, Blooming Grove, last week by a 6-0 count. Italy, the only out-of-county team, finished in last place, with only one victory, a 20-19 win over Hubbard, showing on the credit side of the ledger.

State Home had trouble in subduing Hubbard last week by a 12-6 score, but a loss would not have knocked them out of second place.

Mildred Surprise Team.
The surprise game of the final week of competition was the 13-13 tie game between Mildred and Dawson. Dawson was the favorite, but the surprising Eagles held them to a stalemate. The Mildred crew also tied third-place Hubbard in their first district game of the season.

The Kerens Bobcats, coached by Ozzie Amburge, were marking time until the first week in December, when the Class B bi-district race will start. Inclement weather caused cancellation of two scheduled practice games with the Waco Methodist Home and the Jacksonville B team. At least one practice game will probably be matched for them before the playoffs.

Other Corsicana football teams are still in the middle of their conference races. The Corsicana Tigers will come to the crossroads on Tiger Field

Last Saturday they turned back a strong Ranger club 14-12 on Tiger Field in a definite upset. Navarro will rate the slight favorite over Texas Military here Saturday, because of a slightly better season showing. Coaches Ken Clark and Guyle Akridge expect a hard game, however, and have held stiff drills for the Bulldogs this week despite unfavorable weather conditions.

Trapper Catches Six Brush Wolves

John Jackson, a federal wolf trapper, is working on the Texas Power and Light Company property in Henderson and Navarro counties near Trinidad and had caught six brush wolves early this week. He uses steel traps and cyanide gas cartridges, according to information received here Wednesday. Jackson said that the prevalence of the wolves in this section had caused people along the Trinity river to refrain from trying to raise turkeys.

Tracks indicate there are several bunches of wolves in this section. Bagged Two Deer. Tax Collector Arnold A. Armstrong bagged two deer—an eight point and a five-point—while on a four-day hunting trip at Marble Falls. He left Corsicana Saturday and returned Tuesday. Accompanying him were his wife and brother, W. P. Armstrong and Mrs. Armstrong, of Ennis. Armstrong said it was good weather for hunting and that about a dozen persons were in camp when he was there.
